Booking Information

Why book Michael?

Unlike most medical humorists, Michael did not go through four years of medical school to become a doctor; instead, he took the more direct route, and he married one! (His parents are very proud).

Now, with over fifteen years of marital bliss under his belt, along with a few extra pounds, Michael shares his experience with medical professionals and their families. Using humorous antidotes and a razor sharp wit, he elaborates on subjects such as surviving internship, pagers, raising children, living with illness, and overcoming society's expectations of male/female gender roles.

Michael's unique presentation, "The Doctor Will See You Now", takes a hilarious look at what it's really like being married to a physician. Since his humor relates to both doctors and their spouses, Michael is the perfect choice for those large family-oriented conferences, as well as the year-end retreat or office party.

Regardless of the occasion, Michael will help make your next event a joyous success!

Note: In this document there are a few photos of Michael you may use in printing up flyers or memos for your event.

Michael's Introduction

Our speaker today is a professional comedian who has performed at comedy clubs across the country. Over the years, his wife, who is a medical doctor, suggested that he write a humorous speech around their lives together, their child, and Michael's challenging health issues. He eventually responded to her "encouragement" and created the presentation. Hence forth, Michael has focused his humor on the realities and challenges facing medical professionals and their families.

Presenting his humorous discourse...

"The Doctor Will See You Now",

Please welcome Mr. Michael Elizondo.
